

Analysis of social determinants of health and health inequities - a multi country event on approaches and policy

12-17 October 2009
Kosice, Slovak Republic

Aims:

The WHO Regional Office for Europe through its Office for Investment for Health and Development (WHO Venice Office) is organising a Multi-Country event in collaboration with P.J. Safarik University, Kosice Institute for Society and Health (KISH), to present and debate issue and methods in policy, research, monitoring and analysis of social determinants of health and health inequities, in countries of Central and Eastern Europe, the Balkan Republics and the Baltic States.

[http:// www.if.upjs.sk/
omek](http://www.if.upjs.sk/omek)

Content:

Thematic areas will include

- Contemporary issues in the research and analysis of Social Determinants of Health and Health Inequities (SDHI)
- Explanatory frameworks for social inequities in health
- Health equity surveillance - data availability and equity stratifiers in routine statistics and reporting
- Approaches and methods in analysis of social determinants of health and health inequities
- Ethnicity issue in research and policy
- Translation of research findings into policy and programs
- Equity focused policy analyses and option generation
- Economic analyses and incentives for addressing social determinants of health
- Public awareness of Social Inequities

Venue:

P. J. Safarik University, Srobarova 2, Kosice, Slovakia.

Main university building,
Historical hall on first floor.

Dates:

12-17 October 2009

Detailed information:

A more detailed timetable and further information regarding registration, travel and accommodation will be available on <http://www.lf.upjs.sk/omek> or via e-mail to dr. Andrea Madarasova Geckova at geckova@upjs.sk.

Registration:

To register your interest to participate, please contact directly or send an email with your name, position, and organisation and contact details to Jarmila Fristikova at jarmila.fristikova@upjs.sk.

